Lindsay Ferreira

Award Winning Mixed Media & Hot
Glass Sculpture Artist

Lindsay Ferreira was born in Tucson, Arizona and was raised in Arizona and Utah. She is of Cherokee decent but admits the Hopi, Navajo, Cheyenne and Ojibwae cultures have greatly influenced her life, spirituality and artwork.

Ferreira is an artist whose life long discipline, love of hands-on creating and innovative style is taking her to the forefront of her profession. Using her broad knowledge of all things glass, Ferreira turns her dynamic contemporary mixed-media and glass sculptures into unexpected masterpieces, giving her the ability to stand alone in the fine arts industry.

From the age of five Ferreira studied art beginning with classic oil paint on canvas. She also studied ceramics, wood carving, classic piano and guitar, dance and enjoyed flying lessons with her father, an accomplished and award winning pilot. In her early twenties Ferreira completed a five-year apprenticeship with a glass master.

In 2004 Ferreira took an opportunity to pursue her love of art using glass as the center piece of her one-of-a-kind sculptures. As a dimensional artist Ferreira uses a process known as Vitri-Fusaille and often incorporates stone, metal, gold, silver, crystals and gems in her work to create "architectural jewelry for your space".

Ferreira attended Universities of Utah, Minnesota and New Mexico, Mary College and Saint Paul College for a variety of degrees and certifications.
